

CFP: Journal of Nursing Regulation October 2020 & January 2021 Issues

Journal of Nursing Regulation (JNR), the official journal of the National Council of State Boards of Nursing (NCSBN), is an interdisciplinary, quarterly, peer-reviewed, academic and professional journal. It publishes scholarly articles that advance the science of nursing regulation and that enhance communication and collaboration among nursing regulators, educators, and practitioners as well as the scientific community. The journal supports evidence-based regulation, addresses issues related to patient safety, and provides global perspectives on nursing regulatory issues, programs, and projects.

JNR welcomes contributions from national and international scholars and practitioners who examine nursing and healthcare regulation from all theoretical perspectives and using all forms of inquiry. The journal publishes original research articles (5,000-8,000 words), continuing education articles (no longer than 5,500 words), “Innovations” that detail creative approaches that have been taken when addressing regulatory issues (no longer than 3,500 words), “Case-In-Point” case studies (no longer than 3,000 words), and book reviews (approximately 600-625 words).

JNR is currently accepting submissions for the following issues.

October 2020 Issue – Deadline: June 15, 2020 at 11:59 PM U.S. Central Time

January 2021 Issue – Deadline: September 15, 2020 at 11:59 PM U.S. Central Time

Manuscripts must not have not been published previously and must not be under consideration elsewhere. In addition, all manuscripts must adhere to the Publication Manual of the American Psychological Association, 7th Edition (APA Style). Please review JNR's Guide for Authors before submitting your work to:
